Realtors Rally Behind Huberty
Houston Association of Realtors Endorse Dan Huberty

Kingwood – Dan Huberty announced today that he has received the endorsement of the Houston Association of Realtors in the April 13 Runoff Election.

“I am pleased and proud to receive the endorsement of the Houston Association of Realtors. The Realtors are some of the most active members of our community and their support is a tremendous boost to our campaign. They recognize my business background and experience, as well as how my service to the community best equips me to serve District 127 in the Texas Legislature,” Huberty said.

John Nichols, Chairman of the Political Affairs Advisory Group for the Houston Association of Realtors said, “Dan Huberty has been involved in the real estate industry over the past 20 years. His knowledge, experience, and understanding of the issues we face are important qualities we value. He will be an ally to Realtor interests in the Texas House of Representative. We are proud to support Dan Huberty for the next State Representative of District 127.”

“The Realtors are known all across Texas for their significant grassroots efforts in campaigns, and the Houston Realtors are the most active in the State. They know that I share their philosophy of preserving private property rights and will work to maintain a strong, healthy business environment,” Huberty concluded.

Dan Huberty finished the March 2 campaign first in a field of four candidates with 48.73% of the vote. A runoff election will be held on April 13. The second place candidate, Susan Curling received just 20% of the vote.
